

Discover an easier compliance system that increases your business opportunities

If potential clients could more easily see that you've met their compliance requirements you could net more extended contracts and new business relationships. BROWZ® advanced technology and superior data solutions make the compliance process easier and more cost effective, simplifying your reporting and ultimately improving your bottom line.

Prequalification and compliance audits can be a frustrating process. Working with multiple buyers can add complexity when submitting documentation. And unless your clients have a single place of storage for compliance related data, you may find yourself submitting and re-submitting documentation over and over again. The BROWZ® network was designed to overcome all of these hurdles to efficiency.

BROWZ® eliminates lost documents and minimizes duplication. Once you complete a client's requirements you'll only be asked to resubmit data if something is incomplete or when data expires. Best of all, BROWZ® tracks those expirations for you and sends you prompt notices to avoid non-compliance.

Single-source System

The customer-focused BROWZ® Supply Chain Verification Service gives suppliers the ability to create a single point of access for all the information prospective and current customers need. Suppliers who use BROWZ® can easily respond to any inquiry or business opportunity.

Timely Notifications

Before important data expires, BROWZ® sends a notification of upcoming changes to both suppliers and clients. The notices help create a compliance process that is as seamless as possible, ensuring that all information is kept current and accurate.

The ability to ensure compliance throughout your contract period with a customer can be a major point differentiating you from competitors. Your BROWZ® membership tells prospective clients that you already have a strong, third-party-verified compliance record, which can only enhance your desirability as a supplier.

Third Party Verification

Independent verification of your compliance data is a key element of the BROWZ® service. As an independent third party, BROWZ® helps you deliver the ever increasing requests for information from your customers. As data is collected, it is securely posted to registered BROWZ® client accounts once you have given consent. You control the relationship so only prospects and clients can view your information, not your competition.
